

ABSTRACT

A medicinal composition, wherein an ADP receptor antagonist and an ACAT inhibitor are administered either
5 simultaneously or separately at a defined interval as a preventive or a remedy (in particular, a remedy) for arteriosclerosis or diseases derived from arteriosclerosis such as ischemic heart disease, ischemic brain disease and peripheral circulation failure in warm-blooded animals (in 10 particular, humans).